Tess Cooper; Wildlife Care, Thursdays

A passion emerged for all things scaled, feathered and furry that led me to study Zoology at the University of Queensland, and so my profession in wildlife commenced. I worked in zoos and sanctuaries around Australia, shaping my skills and knowledge of animal husbandry and behaviour.

First as a Veterinary nurse, now as a Wildlife Ranger, I work towards the protection and conservation of native wildlife. I have a great enthusiasm for all creatures especially Aussie ones, from Spiders through to Sea Turtles.

You may have heard the saying 'conservation starts in your own back yard'. I'd love you to join me in exploring the wildlife in our back yards, the threats they face and what we can do to support them.
